Pauley Says Neither Truman Nor Anderson Knew of Dealings

Evacuation Work Continues in North For 3 Survivors

Brighter Weather Assists Crews Working to Remove Men to Hospitals

Westover Field, Mass., Dec. 12 (AP)—Clearing weather over Labrador brightened the prospects today for evacuating the remaining three army men who survived a crash of a transport plane that killed 23 others Tuesday night.

Three of the survivors—one seriously injured—were flown out of the icy wilderness in the Air Transport Command helicopter yesterday to Goose Bay. They will be transferred to Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

A light snow fell this morning in the region but meteorologists said it was not severe enough to prevent flying. The mercury dropped to eight degrees during the night, but rose to 18 at 7:30 a. m. (E.S.T.).

First report from a survivor attributed the crash to a power failure and said the big ATC plane "seemed to come almost to a stop in mid-air" before plunging earthward.

Traveling over the rough, rocky terrain is so difficult that there is a possibility that even the overland rescuers may be flown out.

The first three rescued, flown ten miles from the scene of the wreck to the Goose Bay Hospital yesterday, were identified by army officials here as Lt. J. M. Bickley, of Santa Monica, Calif.; Capt. John Shaner, of Harrisburg, Pa.; and Lt. Col. Harry Bullis, of Portland, Mich.

All three were reported to be in "fair condition—not critically injured."

Power Failure Blamed

Bullis was quoted by an army officer who flew back here last night from Goose Bay as saying the crash was "undoubtedly caused by a power failure."

Bullis was quoted as saying he was lying in a bunk near the front of the plane just after the take-off from Goose Bay at midnight "when suddenly there was a terrific vibration which shook the whole plane."

"Right after the awful vibration," Bullis stated, "the plane seemed to come almost to a stop in mid-air. The next thing I knew I was lying on the ground after being thrown clear of the wreck."

The army said that all 29 in the plane were thrown clear when it smashed into the ground at a speed survivors placed at near 100 miles an hour.

The scene of the crash was so inaccessible that an army doctor, Lt. Stanley Burr, of Carlisle, Pa., who flew to Labrador from Westover by plane and helicopter, reached the wreck hours before another doctor who set out on foot with a rescue party from Goose Bay.

A second helicopter was flown to Labrador last night to assist in removing the dead, and in flying out the rescuers who went to the scene by land.

The three survivors who remained tonight at the wreck were well provided with sleeping bags, portable stoves and food supplies which were parachuted to them.

Belief Is Reiterated

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 12 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace reiterated today his belief that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would be elected president if nominated by either major party next year. "If nominated, he will unquestionably win, no matter what party nominated him," the former Democratic vice-president said at a news conference. Wallace said he believed Eisenhower, soon to retire as army chief of staff, was "less of a war candidate" than either President Truman or Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Special Assistant to Army Secretary Says He Is $100,000 Poorer, Due to Accepting U.S. Position

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley testified today that neither President Truman nor Secretary of Agriculture Anderson could have known when they criticized speculators that Pauley was operating on the commodities market.

Pauley, a special assistant to Secretary of the Army Royall, made the statement before the Senate Appropriations Committee as he testified he is "$100,000 worse off" because he started selling his holdings in commodity futures after taking over the post last Sept. 3.

Mr. Truman in a radio address Oct. 5 criticized the "greed of speculators who gamble on what may lie ahead in our commodity markets." Later, in laying his 10-point anti-inflation program before Congress, the President asked legislation to regulate speculative trading on the exchanges.

Pauley testified he held "something less than a million dollars' worth of commodities when he took the army post."

In a statement to the committee he said that he had "liquidated approximately 90 per cent of those commodities, reducing my holdings of grain from 500,000 bushels to approximately 50,000 bushels."

Later he told the senators that he "did rather well" in commodities trading this year.

But he denied, under questioning by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), that President Truman could have "conceivably" known of Pauley's activities on October 5 when Mr. Truman declared that the cost of living must not be a football kicked around by gamblers speculating in the market.

Reading a brief prepared statement to the Senate Appropriations Committee, Pauley said that he has sold nine tenths of his holdings and none of his army connections had been used in his trading.

Pauley, whose last run-in with Congress brought about Harold J. Stassen's resignation from cabinet job yesterday, was ordered by Chairman Bridges (R-N.H.) to tell the committee about his grain dealings.

Pauley Statement

Pauley's statement to the committee follows:

"At the time I accepted the position as special assistant to Secretary Royall I was the owner of certain futures and commodities. In accordance with the agreement made with Mr. Royall at that time I have liquidated approximately 90 per cent of those commodities, reducing my holdings of grain from 500,000 bushels to approximately 50,000 bushels. Because of carrying out my agreement to liquidate, I am currently more

Benjamin N. Ashton, president of Electrol Incorporated, 85 Grand street, this city, announced today that the company has purchased, installed and is operating a new automatic machine which will enable the plant to compete with other advanced factories in meeting today's demands for parts. Latest acquisition is this $24,000 Warner & Swasey five-spindle giant, the only one in the east and only one of 20 manufactured by the Cleveland concern. It has been developed since the end of the war. Approximate weight of the bare machine is between six and seven tons. It requires no operator and enables the set-up man to work faster, according to Ashton. Standing at the machine is Otto Schrieble, foreman of the turret and automatic department.

State Trooper Charles Austin, who investigated, said the driver reported that her vision was affected by the headlights of another car. She was conveyed to the Kingston Hospital for treatment of a possible fracture of the right hip and a head injury.

At Least 20 Die In C-47 Plunge Outside Memphis

Bodies, Wreckage Scattered Over Quarter Mile; Death Toll May Hit 21

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 12 (AP)—An Army C-47 plane burst into flames with a flash seen two miles away and crashed into an open hillside near here shortly after dark last night, killing at least 20 persons and possibly 21.

The big craft slashed through a small wooded area within two miles of the Memphis Municipal Airport, and twisted in a sage field, scattering bodies and wreckage over a quarter-mile path.

Small trees were torn down. In one, a half-open parachute dangled. Twisted masses of metal hung on other limbs and dotted the ground.

Col. Donald K. Fargo, commanding officer of the 468th Air Forces base unit, announced the death toll at 20—with possibly another body in the wreckage—and said a board was investigating.

Names of the dead were withheld pending notification of relatives. An Army spokesman said two were believed to be negroes.

Fargo said the plane was based at Aberdeen, Md., and had made its last stop at El Paso, Texas, yesterday. It was returning from the West Coast.

C. V. White said he saw the plane explode and burst into flames from his home two miles away.

Deal Will Hinge on Way Ministers' Conference Regards Stand on German Economy

Ask Central Power U.S., France and Britain in Favor of Limited Decentralization

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—Soviet sources reported today Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov might offer to defer Russia's $10,000,000,000 reparations claim against Germany if the Foreign Ministers' Conference would agree to immediate establishment of all-German economic and administrative agencies in the Reich.

These sources, close to the Russian delegation at the conference, said Molotov might propose today a deferment of the claim for reparations from current production until German economy is balanced and the country is paying its own way. There was no immediate estimate of how long this would be.

Whether such a concession would open the way for an overall German settlement remains questionable. The Russian approach to the creation of all-German administrative and economic agencies differs substantially from U.S. views.

Russia prefers the vesting of more power in a central authority. The United States, backed by France and Great Britain, favors a limited decentralization.

Statement Coming

Molotov is expected to make a major statement today or tomorrow.

Secretary of State Marshall had demanded that Russia halt all reparations deliveries from current production, which he estimated at $500,000,000 yearly. Molotov said Marshall was mistaken.

It is considered likely that Marshall will stand firm against any reparations delivery from current production, deferred or otherwise.

Both Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin have insisted at the current conference that firm agreements be reached for a German settlement as a whole, and that no patchwork agreements on single items be accepted.

The Russian statement will reply in detail to Marshall's call on Wednesday for a definitive outline of the Russian stand on the crucial reparations issue, Soviet sources said.

Answer to Marshall

This statement, which Soviet sources said should be delivered before the week-end, probably will be Molotov's promised response to S. Secretary of State Marshall's assertion Wednesday that Russia's reparations demands could not be paid without either wrecking German economy or making the American taxpayer carry the load.

The Soviet minister contended that the Marshall was incorrect and said he would prove it. His reply was expected yesterday, but was not produced when the council instead of debating reparations took up secondary German economic issues.

The only agreement of significance reached in this discussion was that if and when all Germany is unified the level of steel production should be set at 1,500,000 ingot tons per year. Steel output is measured on the basis of other German industrial production.

(Total steel production in the United States this year is expected to reach about 85,000,000 tons.)

Molotov sought to have this tentative decision made final at once and applied to all Germany immediately by the Allied Control Council at Berlin. This is in line with his evident strategy to get at least some over-all agreement here which would provide a basis for new Russian insistence that the United States and Britain should stop operating their two zones jointly and exclusively of the rest of Germany.

Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin successfully insisted, however, that any agreement on industry or any other single phase of German economy must be subject to a final over-all agreement on the actual economic unification of Germany.

Death Toll Hits Seven in Leigh Company Colliery

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 12 (AP)—The death toll reached seven today in a gas explosion which ripped apart a section of Leigh Coal Company's Franklin colliery.

Two blasts in rapid succession 1,000 feet underground killed five men outright. Two others died in hospitals.

State and federal authorities started an immediate investigation. Eight anthracite mine blasts in Luzerne county this year have killed 40 workers.

Rescue crews early today recovered the body of 66-year-old Michael Guidaitis some 14 hours after the Franklin colliery explosion. John Casper, 52, died a few hours later of burns.

The other dead were Stephen Sillup, 47; Frank Chudlow, 55; Ignatz Skyznecki, 57; Roger Jones, 41; and Caspar Pulak, 24.

An eighth miner in the section at the time of the blast, Edmund Orjeski, 42, was reported in critical condition and near death.

The U. S. Mine Department reported that several earlier recommendations for improved safety were repeated in the last inspection of the shaft last June, but added that no particularly hazardous conditions were reported.

Joseph Walsh, deputy Pennsylvania mines secretary, ordered a three-man commission to the scene to start an investigation.

Strike Seems to Have Loosened Grip on City; Attacks Weaken Hold

Rome, Dec. 12 (AP)—Jeep-borne police riot squads, swinging clubs, charged surging crowds today in the heart of strike-bound Rome, as throngs chanted the Communist anthem "Red Flag."

Police quickly cleared the crowds in the Piazza Colonna, from their concentration point below the windows of the Italian foreign office. The crowd gave way, jeering and hooting.

Two Associated Press photographers from the United States, J. Walter Green and Frank Noel, were struck on the head by police clubs, but suffered no serious injury. They continued working after identifying themselves.

Rome's general strike, now in its second day, appeared to have loosened its grip somewhat, despite the determination of the Communist-controlled Chamber of Labor to pursue it to the bitter end. Strong-arm police measures weakened the strikers' effectiveness as Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian democratic government pressed for a settlement.

The most vigorous police action was at the Piazza Colonna, and leftists were angered and embittered. At one point, Pietro Nenni, the leader of the Socialists' pro-Communist wing, and Giuliano Pajetta, a Communist member of the constituent assembly, were mixed up in a fracas after attempting to remonstrate with police. Neither was injured.

Bonus Head Tells Veterans To File Claims Even in Doubt

By HARRY O'DONNELL

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 12 (AP)—When in doubt—file!

That's the word to World War Two veterans from Leo V. Lanning, director of the State Bonus Bureau.

He paraphrased the famed football axiom about punting after digging out from under 10,000 letters, which have engulfed him since Nov. 4 when the people approved the $400,000,000 veterans' bonus.

"File first and punt (kick) afterwards," Lanning promised.

That is the gist of Lanning's advice to veterans having doubt as to their eligibility for the $50, $150 or $250 payments for service in World War II.

Not that the bureau isn't attempting to answer queries. Lanning received a note from a Spanish-American War veteran asking for information on the bonus.

Short Supply, Undue Price Charges Given as Factors Affecting Commodities

Will Give Report Secretary Says He Will Give More Data Soon

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Specific proposals for price ceilings and roll backs under President Truman's request for standby anti-inflation powers were submitted to Congress today by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

Replying to Republican demands that the administration spell out its anti-inflation program, Schwellenbach said price controls would be limited to commodities:

1. That basically affect the cost of living and which are essential items.
2. That are basic to the costs of agricultural and industrial production.
3. "Essential to effectuation of the foreign policy of the United States."

Moreover, Schwellenbach said a maximum price should be set only when:

1. The commodity is found to be in short supply; 2. or the price of such commodity has risen unreasonably above the price prevailing in June 1947.

Maximum prices lower than the highest price prevailing between June 11 and June 13, 1947, may be established under Schwellenbach's proposals to make allowances for decreased costs or market declines.

Provisions to Wolcott

Schwellenbach sent the price control provisions to chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) of the House Banking Committee, with a note saying he will submit in a day or two specific language for such wage controls, regarded as necessary to accompany price ceilings.

Schwellenbach described his outline as his "personal recommendations." At the White House later after a cabinet meeting, he said wage and price controls "are tied together" and it will be "extremely difficult to do anything on wages unless action is taken on the control of prices."

On the other side of the Capitol, the Senate Republican Policy Committee drew up a long-range anti-inflation program pegged to voluntary action. Chairman Taft (R-O.) declined to disclose details until House G.O.P. leaders and a conference of all Republican senators have had a chance to look it over.

Would Include Points

Taft said, however, that it would include three of four points embraced in the House committee-approved bill drafted by Wolcott, which the Republicans have offered for passage at the special session as a substitute for the administration's program.

In addition to Schwellenbach's price control recommendations Secretary of Commerce Harriman has submitted to a Senate committee specific legislative proposals for priority and allocation controls.

However, the administration's plan faced strong opposition from Republican leaders. Chairman A. J. Almy (R-Ill.) of the House Rules Committee told reporters the G.O.P. substitute bill will be presented in the House Monday. "Take it or leave it," he said, "but it would be amendments to include the Truman proposals."

"We have the two-thirds vote to carry this plan," Almy said. "A lot of southern Democrats will vote."

Short Supply, Undue Price Charges Given as Factors Affecting Commodities

Will Give Report Secretary Says He Will Give More Data Soon

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Specific proposals for price ceilings and roll backs under President Truman's request for standby anti-inflation powers were submitted to Congress today by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

Replying to Republican demands that the administration spell out its anti-inflation program, Schwellenbach said price controls would be limited to commodities:

1. That basically affect the cost of living and which are essential items.
2. That are basic to the costs of agricultural and industrial production.
3. "Essential to effectuation of the foreign policy of the United States."

Moreover, Schwellenbach said a maximum price should be set only when:

1. The commodity is found to be in short supply; 2. or the price of such commodity has risen unreasonably above the price prevailing in June 1947.

Maximum prices lower than the highest price prevailing between June 11 and June 13, 1947, may be established under Schwellenbach's proposals to make allowances for decreased costs or market declines.

Provisions to Wolcott

Schwellenbach sent the price control provisions to chairman Wolcott (R-Mich.) of the House Banking Committee, with a note saying he will submit in a day or two specific language for such wage controls, regarded as necessary to accompany price ceilings.

Schwellenbach described his outline as his "personal recommendations." At the White House later after a cabinet meeting, he said wage and price controls "are tied together" and it will be "extremely difficult to do anything on wages unless action is taken on the control of prices."

On the other side of the Capitol, the Senate Republican Policy Committee drew up a long-range anti-inflation program pegged to voluntary action. Chairman Taft (R-O.) declined to disclose details until House G.O.P. leaders and a conference of all Republican senators have had a chance to look it over.

Would Include Points

Taft said, however, that it would include three of four points embraced in the House committee-approved bill drafted by Wolcott, which the Republicans have offered for passage at the special session as a substitute for the administration's program.

In addition to Schwellenbach's price control recommendations Secretary of Commerce Harriman has submitted to a Senate committee specific legislative proposals for priority and allocation controls.

However, the administration's plan faced strong opposition from Republican leaders. Chairman A. J. Almy (R-Ill.) of the House Rules Committee told reporters the G.O.P. substitute bill will be presented in the House Monday. "Take it or leave it," he said, "but it would be amendments to include the Truman proposals."

"We have the two-thirds vote to carry this plan," Almy said. "A lot of southern Democrats will vote."

GREETING FOR 1947

At this season when men of good will traditionally send out the wish for peace on earth, a peculiarly appropriate message is being circulated. It is written over the signature of Albert Einstein as chairman of the Emergency Committee of Atomic Scientists. The postmark is Princeton, N. J., where Einstein is on the faculty of Princeton University. He says:

"I am convinced that if the present bitterness continues to dominate international relations, we face catastrophe. . . . So long as international relations are determined by rival national sovereignties, the threat of atomic war will remain. . . . Now still a little time remains for us to consider different paths leading to the establishment of a federation of nations in which men may develop and use their creative capacities to serve mankind."

The letter, the second such appeal, asks for contributions, a million dollars in all, to carry out the program of atomic scientists for educating the public to the dangers of atomic power unless the nations of the world unite for peace. Already $400,000 has been subscribed for this purpose.

This well might be considered the Christmas message of the atomic age. Peace on earth, good will to men will be possible only if men unite to control their creative capacities rather than to obliterate mankind.

SAFE WINTER DRIVING

Professor R. A. Moyer of Iowa State College, a national authority on highway engineering and safety, has made public a formula for safe winter driving. It is based on actual tests on ice and snow.

Briefing tips from scientific research of eight winters, the fundamental rules for safe driving under adverse road and weather conditions follow:

Get the "feel" of the road on starting out. Adjust speed to weather, road conditions. Slow down well in advance of intersections, curves.

Use tire chains when snow or ice prevail. Keep windshield free of snow, ice, fog and frost.

Follow vehicles at safer distances. Signal intent of turns or stops. Apply brakes with a gentle pumping action on glare ice.

As the nation enters the most hazardous period of the year, the National Safety Council offers these tested tips.

The two major winter hazards are inadequate traction and reduced visibility, the Council points out. In the last eight years there has been a winter jump in the mileage death rate of 24 to 53 per cent as compared with summer.

TAMING THE TONGUE

Recording machines for interstate and foreign telephone calls will become legal early next month. Though long and arduously opposed by phone companies, such devices already are in use throughout the country. Under a new ruling by the Federal Communications Commission recording telephone conversations soon will be legal.

However, users are to be protected by a warning signal, electronically operating at the beginning of the recording and repeated automatically during the conversation. The sound is described as a "bleep."

So after the new year every one will have to watch not only his step but his telephone tongue. Isn't it too bad there isn't some such device to make people check their tongues in ordinary conversation?

LIFE ON MARS!

Is there life on Mars? This long debated question may possibly find an answer now that the California Institute of Technology has a 200-inch telescope, the largest ever. It is really a camera rather than a telescope, and will take pictures of the world of space. The hope is that it will provide enough light to take the first snapshot of Mars. Previous observations have been blurred by a constant shimmer.

The question which the telescope may solve is the nature of certain irregular long

COLD TURKEY

Back in 1933, the London Economic Conference was called to save the world from the effects of a stoppage of international trade, attended by the principal nations. Whimsically, President Roosevelt killed it.

In the 14 years that have passed since then, the very conditions that the Conference was called to cure have grown worse. They have not only been aggravated by a war that devastated both Europe and Asia, but two of the principal producing nations have been felled and produce no more.

Clair Wilcox, Director of the Office of International Trade Policy of the State Department, correctly describes conditions for the year 1947 as follows:

Instead of shrinking, exchange controls and quota systems have taken on a larger scope. Instead of relaxation, they have been intensified. Instead of declining, discrimination is on the rise. Instead of disappearing, bilateral agreements, swapping promises of export licenses and setting up clearing accounts, have been renewed and multiplied. And even in the Articles of Agreement of the International Monetary Fund, the charter for an International Trade Organization, and the general agreement on tariffs and trade, one finds exceptions that will permit restrictionism and discrimination to survive. The most important of these exceptions are temporary; they are subject to prescribed conditions; and they are surrounded by careful safeguards. But they offer no assurance that the conditions that govern the trade of the world will shortly be set on a right track. Indeed, these conditions get better it is even possible that they may take a turn for the worse.

The foreign trade of the United States presents a startling picture. We are exporting, in 1947, $19,000,000,000 in goods and services. Goods exported amount to more than $15,000,000,000 which is five times the amount exported before the war. Our total imports for 1947 amount to about $8,000,000,000. This means that the world owes us $11,000,000,000 for 1947, which has to be paid for in goods or in dollars—or we give them what we export for nothing.

If, for a prolonged period, we find ourselves holding the bag for such huge sums, we shall have to tax our people to the hilt. No nation can afford to give away its wealth or to pay its customers to buy its goods. That, in effect, is precisely what we propose to do under the so-called Marshall Plan: we propose to pay Europe, possibly $5,000,000,000 a year so that the Europeans can buy some American goods.

The question is not how much a country can afford to do. Mr. Wilcox makes the point:

Our exports are outrunning our imports for Europe by nearly 5 billion dollars; for North America by 1 1/2 billion dollars; for South America by 1 1/2 billion dollars; for Asia by 1 billion dollars; and for Africa by over 1/2 billion dollars. That is called a favorable trade balance, but in the long run it is a disaster. It is actually an unfavorable balance, because the party of the second part cannot meet the difference. He cannot take care of his balance. He is stuck and all that he can do about it is to stick it.

The picture is further complicated by the socialism of our customers. In the multilateral trading system, in which the world's private traders are forced to earn a dollar, but the socialist governments prefer barter among governments. Such products as rubber, tin and cocoa are government controlled. The socialist government of Great Britain really forces upon the world the kind of barter for which they criticized Russia. As for Soviet Russia, it limits all foreign trade to government transactions. The result is bilateral trade, that is, each deal steps with a buyer-seller transaction and there are no margins for settlement outside the transactions, except subsidies from America.

This process, whether you understand it or not, costs us pretty much everything in 1947. It may amount to even more. And the American taxpayer pays for it twice; once in taxes, and again in higher prices. Cut away the oratory from the Marshall Plan and all it does is to give the customer the money he needs to buy our goods for which he cannot pay.

That Body of Yours

CHARACTER BUILDING

When I first attended gymnasium classes as a small boy I didn't like the dumbbell, wand and club classes, but went all out for apparatus exercise and basketball. However, it was pointed out to me that calisthenics reached some of my 500 muscles that were not reached by games and apparatus work, so I faithfully engaged in calisthenics. It was not until I got older that I realized that all-round gymnasium and group games did more than develop muscle; they developed character.

The first thing I learned was the value of teamwork in all group games. In baseball I like to pitch; but my brother was a better pitcher and I did the catching. In soccer I could dribble the ball from our end to the opponent's end, but had to pass the ball to one of two other forwards who were better shots on goal than I. In basketball, however, the ball was passed to me on every occasion, because I had a good eye for the basket.

There is not question but that not being allowed to pitch in baseball, nor shoot on goal in soccer but given the ball to shoot in basketball taught me about the rights of the other fellow when the team came first for consideration, and also my own rights while contributing to the success of the team.

I believe that most of those who study the value of group play rank development of self-control as next in importance to developing traits of unselfishness. For every time one loses his temper he learns to control it 50 times.

Other developments of character from group games are learning to take defeat, and learning to continue to play our hardest even in defeat.

I am pointing out to parents some of the character building effects of group games, aside from the physical and even mental development acquired. Encourage your youngster to play group games.

lines which the American astronomer, Percival Lowell, thought were artificial, perhaps canals to carry water from the melting ice of the Martian poles. They might be that, or they might be cracks in the planet's surface.

It would be exciting to find evidence of intelligent life on another planet, but even if it exists, it is not likely that the Martians have solved our problems.

There have been times when it was possible to win a war but lose a civilization, and we hope we're not getting into one of them now.

'Shucks! What Have I Got to Gripe About?'

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

New York (AP)—I am going to unwrap the old crystal ball and give you an advance look at 1948, trusting that everyone kindly has forgotten that nine days before Hiroshima was wiped out I predicted the Japanese war might last another full year.

The forecast is for a strange and exciting year. In fact, frazzled 1948 will be like 1947 hopped up by vitamins.

Here are the prospects: Prices will remain a lot higher than skirts. A genuine "bone steak of pre-war thickness" will be exhibited at the American Museum of Natural History and draw thousands of admiring visitors. It will be flanked by two armed guards.

The slogan of single ladies will be "The New Look Before You Leap" at the bachelors; they'll have to propose to, since it will be leap year.

But the new look won't improve with age, and neither will the ladies who wear it. More and more they will come to realize why an open stadium attracts more people than a tent show.

Santa Claus will pension his reindeer and write an anonymous letter to the newspapers complaining he had to pay $500 over the list price to get him a new automobile.

Somewhere a woman driver will hear a knock in her car's motor, stop, open the hood and see coiled inside—a rattlesnake. (This has happened every year since Henry Ford quit playing marbles.)

A member of the National Association of Manufacturers will send John L. Lewis an eyebrow.

comb, and George Bernard Shaw will again disclaim any responsibility for mankind.

Vaudeville will rise from its grave and parade its creaking bones across the television screen briefly, then return to the winding sheet of oblivion.

William Saroyan will compose a new play—this time in English—and the critics won't like it because they will be able to understand it.

At the opening of the Metropolitan opera in Manhattan two society dowagers who spend the evening kicking a football around the bar lounge will lose the front page play to an actress who arrives escorted by a real ape dressed in a tuxedo and wearing a diamond in its forehead.

A jury will set free a man accused of murdering an old friend who insisted on telling three venerable "talking dog" stories in a row.

A man will get wealthy by inventing a radio gadget that filters out jokes about why Bing Crosby's racehorses never win.

The "man of the year" will be the one who finds something you can do with a penny besides weigh yourself.

An attempt to return cut plug to popular favor by developing a new "bubble chewing tobacco" will fail.

Five foreign nations will offer to lend money to the American government, but the letters will all be mailed on April Fool's Day.

A musical diaper will be put on the market that plays "Break the News to Mother" when the baby needs a change.

All in all, however, bears will have more fun than people in 1948. They hibernate.

Lifelines

C. R. DOUGLAS

Our television age ahead should produce more genuine relaxation than the more blatant radio era as we have known it to date because the voice will be secondary in the staging of most televised broadcasts.

If you have had opportunity to study an audience in front of the small screen, you probably have noticed the tendency of the observers to sit about as relaxed as they generally are at the movie show.

A game or a fight sews up the interest more as television presentation than the old time broadcast, because the observer virtually plays the role of the announcer as he watches. He's seeing a show in its very phase and not merely listening to a story.

This is going to give the boys who have perused us for years, something to do in holding our attention for those preludes to each broadcast. Indications are that they will be doing a more arresting job of it, because everything is in their favor in giving us something interesting to look at while they work in their jingles and raves.

We have no doubt now that the television age is with us to stay. About every second tavern, restaurant and hotel in New York is making a special bid for television audiences, and many a pub is packed when a fight or game of any type is televised.

More people than ever before saw the Louis-Walcott heavy-weight contest on television screens the other night, and thousands more will see the return match if and when it is arranged.

Orchestras are not going to be interesting without a show, but opera should go over well. Men of imagination will have the opportunity of a lifetime to do something with symphonic broadcasts, and we are probably safe in expecting something special from that source.

The whole idea also might make Hollywood sit up and take notice and they might make some real effort in the future to build big box offices the hard and effective way.

Television might also be easier on the neighbors because it will be possible to tone down sound effects and get the whole show.

Reception in this mountain country will not be possible on a general scale until a network provides effective rebroadcasts, but once the line is out in the rest of the nation we will be in on the deal.

We heard once that the telephone company's coaxial cable will play a role in providing reception for this and other areas, but by this time the experts may have some other idea.

Whatever happens, perhaps it is time now to look back to the early days of radio and remember the rapid strides made in its development as soon as large-scale production of receiving sets began. It probably will not take any longer from this year on to give us better television, once the experts get the ball a-rolling.

Maybe the era of new relaxation is with us, and again maybe some commercial wizard is already standing by ready to toss the monkey wrench.

Job By Long Distance
 Amos 'n' Andy said it: "If we don't ship the oil to Russia, how can we expect Russia to be able to fight us?"

We shipped the money to Nazi Germany. We shipped the scrap iron and aviation gasoline to Imperial Japan. We continue to ship oil, machine tools and delicate instruments of war to Soviet Russia.

Senator Bridges, chairman of the Appropriations committee, last week swung haymakers at Administration "stupidity and double dealing" in asking aid for western Europe while permitting export of industrial goods to Russia.

What the public did not know till Bridges' exposed it, was that the Administration is still shipping strategic goods to the Soviets as lend-lease.

Congress legally ended that foolishness nearly a year ago, but Acting Secretary of State Lovett showed how our boondoggling State Department rationalized these Communist-aiding shenanigans. Lovett explained that the lend-lease goods had been "delivered" to Russia last year to our ports, but the Soviets had not yet got around to picking them up.

By this feat of dialectic we could go right on shipping precision lenses and gun-sighting equipment to Russia if and after the Soviets declared war on us.

Red Bureaucracy
 There is no mystery about how we got involved in such double dealing. We simply have Communists and pro-Communists high on the list of advisers in and outside the State and Commerce Departments.

The radical advisers are less conscious than they used to be when leftwing papers frequently boasted of the influence of Henry Wallace and Justice Felix Frankfurter over the New Deal bureaucracy.

Today, however, the organized and regimented bureaucracy can just about stand alone and run itself as a mass dictatorship. It probably is nearer to that than anything the world ever witnessed, including the machine over Soviet Russia.

One of the important men in running this bureaucracy and influencing the Commerce and State Departments is Lewis Lornin of Minsk, Russia, a $10,000-a-year appointee of one time Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace.

Lornin is given credit for helping devise the Marshall Plan (to exhaust U. S. resources and reground us while French and Italian Communist strikers keep the bottom knocked out of the European barrel.) Lornin also is expected to have a hand in administering Marshall Plan aid.

The other day a fellow in Los Angeles got curious about so much talk of Communists in government jobs and just to find out for himself he telephoned a suspect in Washington, a big shot in Commerce Department. The curious citizen spoke perfect Russian and when big shot heard the familiar language of the old country he was readily pleased.

Said curious citizen: "I am Communist; I write for Russian language Communist paper, and I write in English as well as Russian. Maybe I could do something to help." He suggested specifically a job in Europe helping administer or execute the Marshall Plan.

Big shot was delighted. "Just the kind of man we need," he said. "Now you write at once to blank blank—but no. On second thought, you write me and I'll take the letter in person to blank blank."

Incidentally, the fellow blank blank in 1947 was holding down an important job in the office of the adjutant general of the U. S. Army. I don't know what department he is in today because for some mysterious reason both he and the above cited big shot have been left out of the 1947 Congress.

But here are two of the good people who are helping Harry Truman run our government, including the shipping of lend-lease to comrade Stalin.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Wellesley, Mass., Dec. 12—The other night I attended the Men's Club of a local church. On the program was singing by the High School Glee Club of 50 students. It was wonderful music. After the meeting, I suggested to one of the teachers that it would be more interesting to the businessmen present—most of whom were employed to put on demonstrations in spelling and in mental arithmetic. The teacher replied: "I'm sorry but it would be a failure."

Now there is no objection to high schools having glee clubs, bands, hockey teams, etc., but why not also give exhibitions in spelling, arithmetic and some of the other things in which businessmen are also interested. We especially would like to see the school teachers themselves give such an exhibition!

We Want Better Spellers
 I am very serious in making this suggestion. Yet, if you as a reader, pass these thoughts along to your high school principal he will pass them off with a laugh. He does not recognize that you are not paying his salary. Voting of more money for schools will accomplish little, it even may hasten the breakdown of our entire economy through overtaxation.

Most all communities appear to be in this unbalanced predicament. Do not think that Wellesley is an exception and other places. Most teachers employ the same unuseful systems which are taught at the normal schools.

Too many businessmen have employees who are high school graduates and who can neither read nor write correctly. The manager of a large grocery chain had occasion to use high school help Friday afternoon and Saturdays. This help was hired at headquarters and sent out to him. About one in ten of those who were sent to him had to return to the school because they either could not read his writing, or he could not read theirs.

I suggest that readers contact some old grade teachers and see what they will say. Many believe the present day system of emphasizing nonessentials will not stand the test of time. Don't blame the teachers. They must teach as their superiors order. When you finally trace down why your graduates are so inefficient you will find the fault is with the School Committees. They are looking for votes and hence make courses to please the children and avoid courses in which the children of their voters might fail.

Dishonest Promotions
 Another serious defect in our school system is that School Committees rate teachers by the percentages of failures in any one class. If this is above a certain fixed basis the teacher is penalized for inefficiency. In other words, the Committee blames the teacher rather than the student and the parents. This causes each teacher, in turn, to pass pupils from one grade to the next, rather than be downgraded on her own record.

Recently a brilliant school teacher contacted my friend John Walmer in an attempt to get some sort of a petition signed. He kidded her about working with any group that would turn out graduates who could neither read or write correctly. When she wrote to deny such a possibility, she was given the name of graduates. The teacher replied: "Very well they may not be able to read or write now, but they could when they graduated. They probably have forgotten how!"

Social Promotions
 I learn that many School Committees permit SOCIAL PROMOTIONS. You just cannot put a quart of milk into a half-pint bottle. And School Committees state it is just as obvious that you just cannot keep a 17-year-old child in the third grade indefinitely. It most certainly is so if the child has to go to school until he is eighteen. Most teachers are allowed 10 to 15% "social promotions" by many School Committees. As an old teacher tells me, students are promoted from class to class, and finally "graduated" without the ability to read or write correctly or to do simple mental arithmetic correctly. They are vomited out on an unsuspecting public as "graduates," with fourth grade educations. This must be corrected if our public school system is to command respect.

So They Say...

There is one point at which high prices must lead directly to socialism, and I think 30 per cent of the national income is dangerously close to that.

President Caused Some Perplexity Over Statement on Anti-Trust Laws at Press Conference

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 12—President Truman either is getting a little mixed up on what is going on in Washington or else he isn't being kept as closely informed by his aides as he should be about what is happening to proposed legislation.

Certainly there is much puzzlement here over the President's outburst at his press conference in which he said he would not favor any relaxation or suspension of the anti-trust laws while he is in the White House. Maybe he didn't understand the question of the reporter. For the fact is that his own secretary of commerce, Averell Harriman, had proposed that very thing to Congress. Presumably a member of the cabinet in charge of an important series of recommendations must be speaking with the approval of the President.

Maybe cabinet officers don't consult the President. Maybe Congress had better ignore what the cabinet secretaries say hereafter. Mr. Truman has added to the confusion and delay in getting an anti-inflation program enacted.

The problem of relaxing the anti-trust laws came up on Tuesday when Secretary Harriman proposed that the new laws contain a section granting "limited immunities" from anti-trust action when plans for voluntary pooling of information or concerted price reduction are approved by the attorney general.

Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, Republican, was quick to excuse Mr. Truman's negative comment on the ground that he didn't understand the proposed legislation. Mr. Taft said that any agreement reached under the Wolcott bill would be subject to the approval of the President and would not be exempt from anti-trust laws unless so approved.

The question asked by the reporter concerned this proposal and Mr. Truman either had not heard of it before or didn't understand it. After all, a President has many things to do nowadays and there have been other indications that he has not been keeping too well informed.

Not long ago he expressed surprise that anyone should protest against the proposed gag on information to the press in the government departments. He seemed not to have heard of it, though the newspapers were printing a good deal about it. Maybe all this comes from delegating the presentation of programs and proposals to members of the cabinet and others in the presidential entourage who write speeches for Mr. Truman on subjects which he hasn't the time to study himself.

It has been suggested that a President who is not thoroughly informed ought not to hold press conferences, as it reveals him to be unfamiliar with what is going on around him. It could give the country the impression that they have a synthetic executive in the White House who signs what others put before him and approves what he does not really understand.

It will be recalled that former Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace read a speech on foreign policy to Mr. Truman which the latter was reported by Mr. Wallace to have approved. Later, when the President did learn what the speech really meant, he withdrew his endorsement.

The anti-inflation maneuvers on the part of the President and Congress are headed for political battlefields. Apparently Mr. Truman thinks he can put the Republicans in a hole by demanding a drastic program which he knows neither Democrats nor Republicans would adopt because public opinion does not favor it. The Republicans, of course, will give the President a milder version of such legislation which he would have to take the responsibility of vetoing.

Already much valuable time has been lost through the President's delay in sending detailed proposals of his own to Congress. The congressional committees have been waiting for two weeks now for Mr. Truman's recommendations on wage and price control which he promises to send to Capitol Hill shortly.

Maybe the strategy is to get the stopgap legislation through first before introducing the more controversial pieces of domestic controls. Anyway, the country is rapidly getting the idea that the Truman administration is divided within its own ranks, that it has no constructive program and that all it wants to do is place the responsibility for lack of drastic controls on the Republican party. The 1948 campaign is already on.

Properly Directed Energies Cut Down Population of Jails

Napanoch Superintendent Says Youth Needs the Proper Start at Right Time

New York state's policy in corrective work is outstandingly constructive as compared to former years, Major Thomas J. Hanlon, superintendent of the Institution for Defective Male Delinquents, told the Kingston Kiwanis Club at its luncheon meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel Tuesday.

This policy arises, he said, of the realization that "no one goes to jail because he wants to," and is not sent to jail "for punishment" but "as punishment" for a crime.

Inmates at the Napanoch prison he said, are studied individually to determine their deficiencies, and they are made part of a corrective program which keeps them actively interested. Progress made by each is noted on charts.

Could Have Been Good

The energies of such public enemies as Vincent Coll and Abe Reles, if directed properly from the start, would have made each a successful law-abiding citizen.

The speaker had known both at Elmira, he said, and each would have been a different man "if given a chance" at the proper time in his life.

The local police force, he said, may easily be classified as "Kingston's finest." He had observed the members of the department, he said, on many trips to the city, and was impressed with their alertness and appearance.

Major Hanlon commended the local support of the recent police referendum which granted a pay boost to members of the department, and stressed the point that the duties of both policemen and firemen are often taken too lightly.

"A good policeman," he said, "is not always the one who makes an arrest, but the one who gives a good example." The major also praised the work of the Salvation Army as an organization working toward the prevention of crime.

Members of the Board of Police Commissioners and of the local police department were guests of the club for the occasion. The fire department was also represented by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy.

Kapers Make $2,400

William F. Leehive reported that while reports were incomplete the club had "$2,400 in the bank" as a result of the two recent performances of Kiwanis Kapers. He commended and thanked the committee for its support.

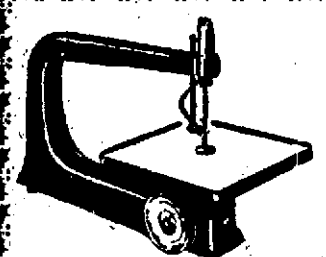

Clarence S. Rowland, chairman of the boys' and girls' committee, urged full support of the members for the Christmas party next Thursday at 6 p. m. for the underprivileged children. He estimated that from 70 to 80 boys and girls would be guests of the club for the occasion.

Transportation will be furnished by the members for the dinner, bill of entertainment and presentation of gifts in the dining room of the hotel.

Residents Nailed For Possible Duty On Carver Jury

Woodstock, Dec. 12—A list of names from which the jury will be selected for the trial scheduled for William Carver of Willow in the Woodstock Town Hall has been prepared and includes Bruce Herrick, Marion Snyder, Victor Bush, George Schwarzwelder, Lawrence Popper, Samuel Wyllie, Charles B. Farley, DeForest A. Drake, Dyrus Cook, Newton Shults, Arthur W. Heister, Herbert C. Wyma, Muriel A. Schmidt, Harry and Herring Katschbach, Marion Bullard, Elizabeth Macdonell, Charles Herrick, Lottie Shults and Charlotte S. Shults.

Trial Changed

The date for the trial has been changed from Monday evening, December 22 to Tuesday evening, December 23, at 7:30.

Carver was arrested on November 26 on a charge that he had a car on a road on which he had a license to drive on his premises prior to the official opening of the deer season in the Catskill mountains. When arraigned before Justice George J. Brundley, the Willow man pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial. He was represented by attorney William R. Kelley of Kingston and was released under $500 bail.

Officials of the State Conservation Department in Kingston did not find the deer on the premises when they called at the scene November 13. However, William Goodman, district game protector and Philip Gillen, an associate, did find other evidence which was analyzed at the state laboratory.

To Open Mitchell Gallery on Sundays

Woodstock, Dec. 12—The exhibition and tea held Sunday at the Mitchell Gallery was attended by so many residents of Woodstock and Kingston, that Gladys Mitchell has decided to open her gallery every Sunday.

afternoon from two until six when she will have an exhibition and tea will be served.

Artists showing work last week were Mrs. Julia Leavcraft, Eugenie McEvoy, C. J. McCarthy, Francis Sligh, Theresa W. Kestey, Richard Burlingame, Gloria Calamar, Gene Sherman, Gladys Mitchell, Morris Klein, Mercy Ann Hillman and Virginia Paccassi. More artists will be added to this list of exhibitors as the winter progresses.

Creates Better Feeling

The purpose of these Sunday afternoon get-togethers explained Mrs. Mitchell is to bring the artist and the layman together in a friendly meeting place where they can talk and get acquainted, thereby creating a better understanding. Also, it is an opportunity for professional artists to display their work where the public can drop in and enjoy it and purchase paintings at a reasonable price. I am of the opinion that the average American family would like to know more about the creative arts and own good paintings, etchings, lithographs and block prints, but too often there is a feeling of timidity about going to the galleries. The result of this is that the average family will go to stores and purchase other types of pictures and many times spend more than would have been necessary to buy an original painting. Of course there are some galleries in large department stores which are doing a great deal of good and showing fine work.

"I might add there's more time to enjoy and learn more about art during these winter months. There is always so much going on during the summer months. A feeling of frustration is felt by many... that old feeling of not having time to get around and see and hear it all."

If it is inconvenient for those interested to visit the Mitchell Gallery on Sunday afternoons, Mrs. Mitchell will be very glad to open the gallery during the week by appointment.

The paintings, lithographs, etchings and wood block prints which have been donated by Woodstock artists for the benefit of the Woodstock War Memorial and the Carl Eric Linden Memorial at the Boy Scouts Camp, will be on display in the window of The Nook in Woodstock during December. This work will be added to as additional contributions are made. The exhibition will be transferred to Kingston in January and may be seen in Walter Donaruma's office window, 261 Fair street.

Christmas Program

Woodstock, Dec. 12—The Woodstock Methodist Church Sunday school will hold its Christmas tree entertainment Monday evening, December 22, at 7:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend this performance.

Legion to Meet Friday Evening; Turnout Is Asked

Woodstock, Dec. 12—American Legion, Woodstock Post 1026, will hold its regular meeting in the club house this evening, at 8 o'clock.

A large turnout is expected for this meeting when it is believed some discussion will be had on the Woodstock War Memorial. Bob Browning, WGN, who is a member of the Woodstock Post, has arranged to attend the meeting. Bob is a former post commander and county commander and he is one of the many Legion members who are anxious to cooperate with the Woodstock War Memorial Association in its efforts to complete the work on the visual and living memorials which have been undertaken. According to Bob, a similar plan got under way during his more active years in Legion work following World War I but because of certain dissension at that time the plan was dropped. He is strongly in favor of a visual as well as a living memorial and he says "with very good reasons" which he will submit to the Legion membership this evening. He will make the trip to Woodstock for the express purpose of doing whatever he possibly can to assist in the completion of the two memorials now planned for the Town of Woodstock.

Mending Socks Is Lesson for Home Bureau Tuesday

Woodstock, Dec. 12—Miss Rachel Merritt, home demonstration agent, Kingston, instructed members of the Woodstock Home Bureau in sewing machine mending Tuesday afternoon when they met in the home of Miss Neva Shults.

The instruction covered patching and various types of darning. Miss Merritt made a suggestion about wool socks that surprised all of the ladies present. She suggested that the heels of wool socks or any heavy socks be dipped in paraffin and said this will increase the durability of the sock. The members were greatly impressed with the demonstration of table linen darning and learned that the secret was to use a very fine thread and set the sewing machine at a slow speed. For sweater darning, Miss Merritt recommended that some of the yarn be taken preferably from a pocket and a patch be made by using the chain stitch.

One of the ladies who is considered to be an expert in home-making said she had learned a great deal from Miss Merritt's demonstration.

At the meeting were Effie Happy, Lottie Dock, Martha Graver, Mrs. Kreyer, Helen Buttrick, Josephine Neher, Daisy Montgomery, Ann Meurer, Doris Huffy and Neva Shults.

Tea was served following the meeting.

No Parking Signs

Woodstock, Dec. 12—Signs designating the "no parking area" have been put up at the intersection of Oak street and the main highway, in front of Deane's and across from the Elwyn store.

Scribe Gives Inside Views At Annual Christmas Fair

Woodstock, Dec. 12—In less than two weeks the Christmas Fair at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen will be closed and it almost seems as though that much time would be required for the average person to really see all of the stunning and interesting articles so attractively arranged for the convenience of the numerous customers pouring into the shop each day.

Your reporter has visited the Guild Shop countless times but never fails to make a new discovery. For the benefit of those persons who have not yet become acquainted with this veritable fairland of crafts, it might be well to describe it. The Guild Centre, located in a beautiful old house just beyond the Village Green and next to the Art Gallery. The porch entrance is gaily decorated with Christmas trees and greens as well as interesting little packages which are tied to the greens on the door. Just inside the door are shelves of books by Woodstock authors. In this group are to be found the delightful children's books by Maude and Miska Petersham, Helen and Al Evers and many others. Here, too, will be found Foe's Days by Anton Otto Fischer, one of the most recent publications.

Jewelry on Display

A large room to the right of the book section houses case after case of beautiful silver, copper and ceramic jewelry, including necklaces, pendants, bracelets, ear rings, buttons, combs and many other articles. Here, too, are stunning leather hand bags, shoulder bags, belts, and purses hand woven materials and articles made from hand woven materials. Unusual ceramic figures, bowls, plates; hand etched aluminum trays as well as the decorated ones. Rarely does one have an opportunity to see many original designs and expert workmanship in one room.

Kingston Exhibitors

Across the hall, the visitor sees a different type of craft work, but equally lovely and interesting. The shelves at the end of this room are Christmas cards made by many Woodstock artists. There are fruit cakes described by one customer as "simply out of this world" and made by Helen Swart and Elsie Duggan of Kingston. Many Ivanoff's gingerbread men and Ethel Barclay's cookies and candies are also here. Aprons for any and every occasion are plentiful. Handmade wool socks, sweaters, caps, gloves and mittens in all colors and types are attractively displayed. In this room too are peasant blouses and dresses beautifully embroidered, woollen suits, and children's clothes.

Toys for Kids

Continuing through to the enclosed porch which is the charming place that intrigues all the grownups as well as the children. A decorated Christmas tree has been placed at one end and under it and all around are hand made toys and articles which have particular appeal for the younger generation.

There is still another room devoted to hand woven linen guest towels, hand blocked luncheon cloths, dollies and napkins. The colors in these sets are exquisite as is the workmanship. A part of the room has been given over to crocheted and braided rugs, small and large, oval and oblong. There are a few stunning hand crocheted heavy white bath mats made by Mrs. Ida Endslee. Belle Northrup has several evening bags and scarfs made from fine silks and brocades of her special collection. These are embroidered with sequins. Marie Arndt also has evening accessories, bags and belts of felt embroidered with sequins. One of the most interesting tea cozy's imaginable is perched on a shelf. Ello Hoffman's handmade quilts are in this section. Something very unusual is the enchanting apron of Mabel Chase's original design in a handwoven soft turquoise blue. Mabel has many other interesting articles, including her special pouch bags.

It is amazing to learn how many different types of articles many of the consignors make. Bessie Stowell is a perfect example of this. For the Christmas Fair, she has made hand printed luncheon sets, apron and cocktail sets, dolls, hand bags, butterfly sachets and large, thick candles that look as though they would burn forever. The latter are in many lovely colors. Carrie Adams has made a specialty of lightweight felt ballerina skirts with bags to match but she also has knitting bags, hooked rugs and chair seats, as well as felt needle cases, eye glass cases, children's hat and bag sets, and toys. Esther Sluizer is represented by many pillows with handwoven covers. Other specialties are her Zena Pine Oil and small packages of Woodstock potatoes. Upon investigation it was found that these, so-called Woodstock potatoes are Marzipan ones. She is now working on Woodstock egg boxes which will be filled with Marzipan eggs. Esther also has silk screen table sets in the Fair.

Mary Smith is well known for her beautiful hand blocked table sets and as always there are many interesting types from which to choose. Kitty Boyd's lamp shades which have become so popular are in good supply.

Many Other Consignors

Hilda Rasmussen, Anna Short, Dora Fellen, Mollie Smith, Fritz Davis, George Sargent and Christine Drogseth are also represented with beautiful hand knitted woolens, aprons, knitting bags, crocheted rugs and the largest braided rug which is a beauty is the work of Christine Drogseth. Hand embroidered wool jersey peasant blouses made by Mrs. Charles King are also on display. The consignors mentioned are but a few of the approximately 150 who make this annual event at the Guild such an outstanding one.

This story would not be complete without a word about the splendid work done each day by the large corps of volunteer workers who are at the Guild each day to assist the purchasers. They know the consignors and gladly furnish information about their fine craftsmanship.

The reasonable prices for these original and exquisite wares is explained by the fact that the Guild is carried on for the benefit of the craftsmen in Ulster county and is made possible because of the untiring efforts of the volunteer workers throughout the year, including the officers and numerous committees.

Considers Jail No Worse Than 'Domineering Greek'

Los Angeles, Dec. 12 (UP)—Film actress Madge Meredith, convicted of three felonies, awaits sentencing Monday on charges of kidnaping and assaulting her former career adviser, Nick Giannacis.

A Superior Court jury of 11 women and one man returned the verdict yesterday after 6½ hours deliberation. Besides kidnaping and assault, it convicted her of conspiracy and found three men codefendants guilty of various charges after the four week trial.

They are Albert Tucker, 29, a nurseryman, convicted of kidnaping, assault with a deadly weapon and conspiracy; Damon Klinkenberg, 32, a cook, assault, conspiracy and possession of a blackjack; James Hatfield, 33, former Beverly Hills policeman, possession of a blackjack.

Penalties prescribed under California law are five years to life for conspiracy; one to 25 for kidnaping; five to 10 years for assault with a deadly weapon; and one to five for possession of a deadly weapon.

Miss Meredith, 28-year-old Iowa Falls, Ia., girl whose real name is Marjorie Massow and whose career progressed swiftly from a Hollywood delicatessen counter to stardom in two pictures, had this to say:

"Well, no matter what my sentence may be, I am no worse off than I was before, under the influence of that domineering Greek."

Giannacis, 38, testified that after he and Miss Meredith quarrelled she lured him and his bodyguard, Verne Davis, into the Hollywood hills June 30, where the three men set upon them, beat them and took them to a lonely canyon. The court claimed the trouble followed a

SERVE 'PEACE PLATE' POT ROAST

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Try pot roast for the Sunday special. It can all be used and there will be leftovers for another meal. This is a "peace plate" recipe, repeated because it deserves repeating.

Spiced Pot Roast
(Serves 6, with leftovers)
One-quarter lb. beef suet, ¼ cup coarsely chopped onion, 3 to 4 pounds round, rump or chuck of beef, 3 cups boiling water, ¼ cup vinegar, 1 small carrot, 2 cloves, dash of allspice, 3 teaspoons salt, ½ teaspoon pepper.

Saute onion in large kettle until all the fat is fried out. Remove suet, add onion and brown well. Remove and reserve. Brown beef well on all sides in remaining fat. When well browned, add onions and remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, then lower heat, and simmer until tender—about 3 to 3½ hours. Then remove meat to a hot platter and strain the liquid. Return liquid to kettle and thicken, using 2 tablespoons flour mixed smooth with 3 tablespoons water for each cup of liquid. Looking for a Christmas season dessert?

Cranberry Ice Cream
One can cranberry sauce, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 3 tablespoons sugar, 6 tablespoons orange juice, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped. Break cranberry sauce with a fork. Add lemon rind and sugar dissolved in orange juice. Freeze in refrigerator tray until partially frozen. Beat. Fold in whipped cream. Freeze until firm.

Man and Wife Are Working to Finish Job for Christmas

Mr. and Mrs. William Deveau of Beverly, Mass., are the fascinating young couple busily installing the new organ at Clinton Avenue Methodist Church this month so the congregation may have organ music for the Christmas services. The organ which is one rebuilt by E. M. Skinner and Son of Reading, Mass., will be a complete two manual church organ. The cost is estimated at about $15,000.

The contract for installing the new organ was signed in August 1946 and the old organ which had served the church for 40 years was dismantled in November last year. Since that time the church has used a piano. The money for the organ has been raised through personal contributions and church organizations. Materials from the old organ were utilized in building the new instrument.

Mr. Deveau, whom Mr. Skinner recommends as one of his best workmen has worked on the organs at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Washington Cathedral and many other churches along the east coast. He installed the organ at the First Presbyterian Church in Newburgh, and has worked at Pittsfield, Mass., Auburn, and Erie, Pa., and most recently North Carolina.

His career which started 22 years ago as a youth in an organ factory at Beverly, Mass., was interrupted by three years service in the army during the war. He was in the air force on troop carriers in New Guinea and the Philippines. Mr. Deveau has been with Mr. Skinner 10 years. Prior to that he worked privately repairing organs in the vicinity of his home town, Beverly, Mass.

Mrs. Deveau does soldering and wiring connections on organs in preference to "pounding book-keeping machines and typewriters" in the bank at Beverly. She has been assisting her husband in organ installation for about a year now, whenever he is assigned to a job of several weeks duration.

However, she learned organ building at home with her husband and has been of great help to him. He emphatically confirms this and says with the demand for organ work today the company needs skilled hands to do all they can.

Also assisting Mr. and Mrs. Deveau at Clinton Avenue Church is Roy Tillberg who transported the organ with its many, many parts. When asked if the organ would surely be completed for Christmas, Mr. Deveau said, "I sincerely hope so. I have a home and I want to be there for my Christmas."

He further said that the organ would probably need more adjusting after the holidays, although it could certainly be used.

Skinner Coming

Ernest M. Skinner, who built the organ and is considered one of the finest organ builders in the world today, will arrive the end of the week to personally supervise the completion of the task. His pipe organs are noted for a particularly fine tone and were chosen for both the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and Washington Cathedral as well as many other churches throughout the country. He also built the organ at the First Dutch Reformed Church, this city.

Mr. Skinner has developed more than 25 new organ voices, especially reproductions of orchestral colors, and has invented the P-tman wind chest as well as other mechanical techniques for the pipe organ.

Gemshorn Stop Included
He has included one of his prize developments, the 16 foot gemshorn pedal stop in the Clinton Avenue Church organ. This stop can be coupled with any part of the organ with equally beautiful results.

The instrument has approximately 1400 pipes of all sizes from that of a pencil to the huge 16 foot pipes. They will be placed in two upper rooms on either side of the chancel with tones coming through shutter windows covered with gold draperies and iron gratings.

Console at Back Right

The console will be placed at the back-right of the chancel so that the organist may watch the choir director. Tilting tablets have been chosen by the Clinton Avenue church committee for controlling the organ stops rather than the drawing arm type used on some organs. The organ consists of great, swell, pedal and chimes.

In addition to the gemshorn on the pedal there are two other stops, 4 foot principal and 5 and 1/3 foot quintet. Couplers are swell to pedal, great to pedal, and swell to pedal four. There will be a swell action, great-swell action and sforzando action.

Six stops for the great organ will be diapason stops; octave, flute, 4 foot stops; 15 (a mixture) 2 foot. Couplers on great are 16, 8 and 4 foot.

Nine stops on the swell organ are diapason, gedackt, salicional, voix celestes, flauto dolce and flute celeste in eight-foot stops; violin, flute, four-foot; flugel-horn, eight-foot, the only reed stop on the organ. There is a tremolo stop and also couplers of 16 and four-foot stops to the great organ.

Frozen Turkey

To prepare a frozen turkey quarter for roasting, loosen wrappings and thaw completely until meat is no longer stiff nor joints rigid. This takes overnight or longer, depending on refrigerator temperature. Remove pin feathers. Singe if necessary. Rinse quarter thoroughly, and wipe dry. Rub salt inside the cavity.

This, he said, would be discussed in talks scheduled for next May on a projected long-term trade treaty.

Kerhonkson Has Ambulance and Oxygen Service

The Ambulance & Oxygen Service Inc., of Kerhonkson which was organized last May by Arthur C. Chipp and Herbert H. Poppel has now completed its organizational stage and is performing a service important to the public health. Because of the part the concern plays in the health of the people of the county there is considerable public interest in the venture.

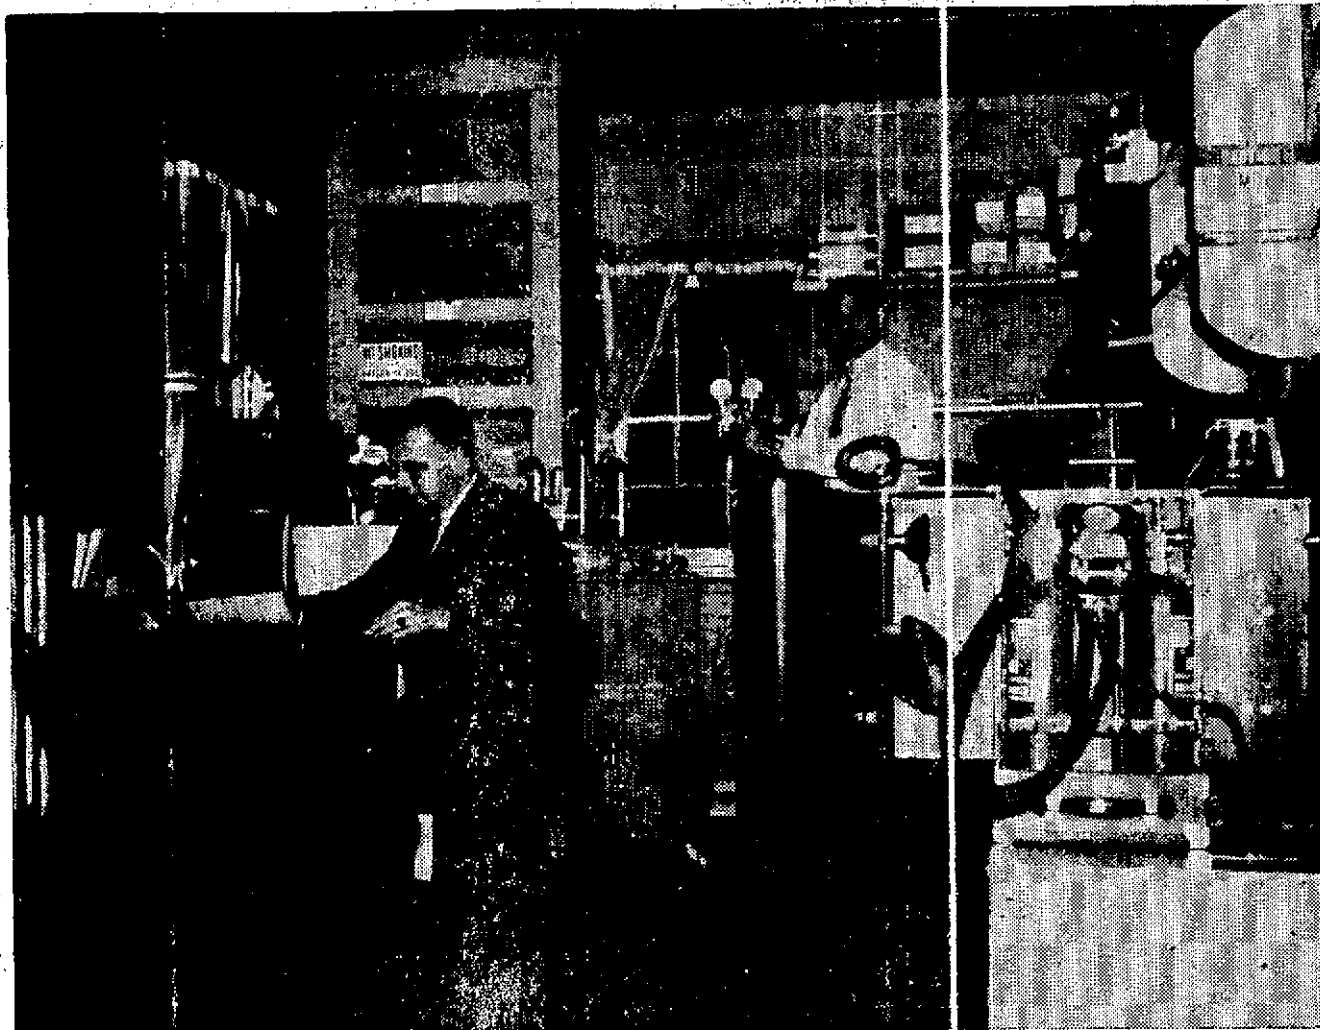

Operating on a 24-hour a day basis every day of the year The Ambulance & Oxygen Service Inc., presents a convenient, quickly available supply of Linde oxygen, Puritan medical gases, oxygen tents, masks, catheters, etc., and intravenous solutions for home treatment where patients are too ill for removal to a hospital, and portable resuscitators are available at all times. This service is a considerable protection to the people of this area since it is the only oxygen service of its kind in Ulster county. A fully equipped Packard DeLuxe ambulance is also maintained.

Oxygen therapy is a treatment for certain kinds of sickness through the addition of pure oxygen to the air the patient breathes. In order that physicians can give oxygen therapy to patients, a supply of high purity oxygen and approved apparatus for its administration is maintained. This service is rendered only under the direction of a physician. The Ambulance & Oxygen Service, Inc., also supplies the necessary equipment such as oxygen tents to the physicians.

It is interesting to note that the air we breathe contains about 20 per cent oxygen. Physicians tell us we take air into our lungs where the oxygen is picked up and carried by the red cells in our blood stream. The heart pumps the blood to all parts of the body so our entire system can attain its necessary oxygen. When a person becomes ill the lungs are sometimes affected or the heart becomes overworked with the result it is difficult to obtain enough oxygen from the air we breathe. Since we cannot live without oxygen, our lungs and heart work twice as hard making the person tired and weak. Oxygen therapy is often prescribed by physicians for such cases. This treatment provides extra oxygen so the lungs and heart can rest and promote recovery.

The portable resuscitator or ambulance model has the same op-

Mr. Chipp is married and has two children. At present he is serving as one of the coroners of Ulster county, having been re-elected to that office for a three-year term in November, 1946. A resident of the town of Wawarsing, Mr. Chipp takes a deep interest in the activities of the town and county. He is a member of the Kerhonkson Fire Company, active in church affairs and is a member of the Kerhonkson Lions Club.

Herbert H. Poppel was born and raised in Kerhonkson where he attended Kerhonkson High School and was prominent in sports and social events. He entered the army in September 1942 and served with the Military Police at Amarilla, Texas, until transferred to the Second Army Air Forces Intelligence Unit with which he spent 18 months overseas, being stationed in Nadzab and Hollandia, New Guinea, the Philippines; and

LeFevre Against Aid Until Communists Counted Out

Following are the remarks made by Congressman Jay LeFevre to the present session of Congress last week on the proposed Interim-Aid Bill:

Nothing was quite so distasteful to me than to read in Friday's New York Herald Tribune, the paper I have long cherished and have read regularly, a short editorial criticizing members of the House for not immediately passing the Interim-Aid Bill for foreign relief.

I believe that every minute granted the membership on this legislation is justified. Certainly, the members who did not visit the foreign countries the past summer are entitled to hear from those who did, and so far, the information given by members who saw conditions first-hand warrants the few hours of discussion allowed.

I believe the House bill will be an improvement on the Senate bill when finally passing, and the members are justified in facing the complete picture as it involves much. I do not believe I have ever seen the membership quite so confused on any former bill.

There probably is not a man in the House who would refuse food and fuel to those who are hungry and cold. Likewise, I doubt whether there are many who would cherish the criticism that his vote might hinder and delay our government's efforts to stop the spread of Communism.

Wants Honest Distribution
I think the great majority of our constituents would approve of aid to help those in real need, but there has been so much criticism in the past of the methods of distribution that I, for one, want to be able to feel that any relief we give, goes to those it was intended for. If the relief purchased by the taxpayers of America, through the passage of this bill, goes to further the cause of Communism and also goes to those nations already dominated by the Russian leaders, we would be justified in holding up this legislation until we are assured of honest distribution.

We cannot laugh off the fact that our responsibilities here are great. It is impossible to determine to what extent the entire foreign aid program will go. The President himself is bound to be concerned because he knows the domestic demand is presently beyond the supply in many cases. This is why he is asking for a return of price controls and rationing. The housewives in my part of the country have too good a memory and abhor the thought of returning to rationing, coupons and black markets. We can remember those little greyish-covered books filled with various colored stamps, issued by an organization called the O.P.A.

We all can remember too that if we couldn't get what we desired at the ceiling prices, it could be purchased at twice the market price in the black market. Then we can also recall that in October of 1946 President Truman announced that he was removing rationing except on sugar and the little stamps were a thing of the past.

Strange enough, almost at once, meat suddenly appeared where it hadn't existed before. Other foods became plentiful and the black market floated out of the window. Since then our country has enjoyed great prosperity. Our earnings have been big. We have been living better than ever before and have bid up and up for the things we have wanted. Besides, our government has been buying untold quantities of foodstuffs for shipment overseas.

Considers Housewives
We can grow and produce only just so much. We cannot feed and clothe everybody without creating a scarcity. Higher prices are bound to follow. It doesn't take much stretching of the imagination to notice how the housewives will react to those little grey books again. How the racketeers would cheer their return, and how the working people would accept a ceiling on their wages.

This is a moment when our country has the opportunity to prove the efficiency of a free economy as opposed to Communism. For the benefit of the editorial writer of the article referred to in the New York Herald Tribune, it isn't a question of piling down the bill which the Senate passed overwhelmingly. From what I have heard of the methods used to arrive at the figure involved in this aid program, a few million dollars more or less, means little.

Hits Red Lend Lease

It is a question of whether or not we care to protect the gigantic investment of three hundred and fifty billion dollars and the lives of the thousands of our boys that were executed to defeat Hitler and save the world against totalitarianism, or to relinquish our position of international leadership and possibly face a third World War, which would make this initial request look like mere "chicken feed." Mr. Truman may have us "over a barrel" as some writers refer to the situation, but Mr. Truman has some explanations to make to the American people. How can he or his State Department explain the sixteen million dollars that has gone to Russia during the year 1947, under Lend-Lease, when these shipments were to have ended a year ago this month. The American people aren't dumb and the barrel may make a reverse roll.

I plan to support this bill if certain strengthening amendments are approved. I intend to go the whole way and agree fully with the aid for China, too. I have that much faith in my colleague, Doctor Judd, and I can well understand the necessity for having two fronts for the Russians to worry about. We have a tremendous problem and we must have the full support of the American people.

Braunstein Body Due in Wawarsing For Funeral Dec. 14

Religious Military Rites Will Be Conducted; V. F. W. Carries Vets Name

The body of Pfc. Irving David Braunstein, son of Meyer and Fannie Braunstein, the first American war dead to be returned to the town of Wawarsing after World War 2, was scheduled to arrive on the 11:45 a. m. West Shore train in Kingston today from the Schenectady Distribution Center, Arthur Chipp of the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home said.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the H. B. Humiston Funeral Home in Kerhonkson. Rabbi Neslick of Ellenville will conduct the rites and burial will follow in the Kerhonkson Hebrew Cemetery. Full military honors will be accorded him at the grave.

Pfc. Braunstein's body arrived in the United States aboard the Army transport Robert F. Burns on November 26 at the Brooklyn bus. The ship carried 4,212 bodies of American servicemen from military graves in Henri Chappelle Cemetery near Eupen, Belgium, and the cemetery at St. Laurent-sur-Mer, Normandy.

Killed in Bulge
The Kerhonkson youth, who entered service in 1942, was killed in November, 1944 during the Battle of the Bulge. His death came after only two months of overseas service. Shortly after entering the army he was assigned to the medical detachment of the 104th Infantry Division (Timberwolves).

Teachers Will Seek $100,000,000 Fund

New York, Dec. 12 (AP) — An additional $100,000,000 in state aid for public schools throughout the state will be sought at the next session of the legislature in a bill supported by the New York State Teachers Association.

Dr. Arvie Eldred, executive secretary of the association, said yesterday a bill is being prepared for introduction. In January asking that temporary grants made a year ago be retained and additional funds supplied.

About $40,000,000 of the additional $100,000,000 sought would go to New York city. State aid to local communities now approximates $150,000,000 annually.

and was stationed in Oregon and Colorado with that outfit prior to overseas assignment.

P.F.C. Braunstein was born January 12, 1922 at Scranton, Pa. Shortly after his birth his parents removed to Kerhonkson. He later attended public and high school in Kerhonkson.

Pre-Med Student
During his school years he was active in both social and sports activities. He played on two Kerhonkson High School championship basketball teams and was a member of the honorary Kappa Society. The Kerhonkson veteran was later a pre-med student and attended Colorado State for two years and Washington College, Chestertown, Md., for the same period of time.

He married Miss Esther Freeman in 1942. A son, Dale, was born shortly after the father's death in action in the European Theatre of Operations.

The newly-organized Veterans of Foreign Wars of Kerhonkson, Post 8959, which carries P.F.C. Braunstein's name in honor of a living memorial, the DeLeo-Braunstein-Mahler Post, will conduct the military services at his burial on Sunday.

Besides his parents, wife and son, P.F.C. Braunstein is survived by a sister, Mrs. Irving Gilman of Kerhonkson and several nieces, nephews and cousins.

The casket will be escorted to Kingston and later to Kerhonkson from Schenectady by Captain Arthur L. Mahler of the army.

Dewey Declares Truman Incapable In Home Affairs

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York told a gathering of Republican House members last night that President Truman is "not competent to use the powers that have been given him" in his handling of domestic affairs.

Dewey, who has yet to announce that he aspires to the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, made his remark at a private dinner last night attended by 100 House members from about half the 48 states.

Reporters were banned, but the Governor was quoted as saying that the President's handling of domestic affairs has been pretty unsuccessful.

Dewey was also said to have repeated earlier assertions that the administration's policy toward China will permit that nation to go Communist by default.

The reaction to Dewey's 20-minute speech ranged from "satisfying" to "excellent."

Rep. Sundstrom (R-N. J.), who described himself as not committed to any candidate at this time, said "Mr. Dewey didn't lose any friends and he made a lot of new ones."

A source close to the Governor said that a check of the attendance showed that all but one of New York's 28 House Republicans were present for the dinner. The absent member was not identified.

In addition, members of the House from these states were seen:

Wisconsin, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Michigan, New Jersey, Indiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Iowa, Oklahoma, Oregon, California, Tennessee, Kansas, Nebraska, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Missouri, Colorado, and South Dakota. A delegate from one of the territories also was present.

Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) and House Majority Leader Halleck (R-Ind.) also put in an appearance. Martin, however, left early due to a previous commitment.

afford decent homes "real jalopies as homes—slum homes."

Should Clear Slums
Referring to New York's housing program, Stuchman said that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey "believes that we should clear our slums, replace them with decent homes which will provide good family living in decent neighborhoods. I believe that the federal government should encourage other states to adopt programs similar to ours."

Another group of state housing came from Charles Abrams, of the new school of social research, who said "the day is gone when private enterprise will produce housing for the elderly."

Public housing, however, has not yet recognized its responsibility in the slum problem.

Dr. Louis J. Dublin, vice-president and statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, told the hearing that life expectancy of persons more than 65 has increased in recent years from three to 13 years.

State Sen. Thomas C. Desmond, who presided, said legislation put forward by the committee would be sponsored by himself at the coming legislative session.

with us. They don't like controls and ration stamps."

Informed of the Republican strategy, House Democratic Leader Rayburn of Texas, cried that it is "an outrageous proceeding."

"To deny the membership of the House the right to present amendments for action of the House on a bill of this importance is an inexcusable strong-arm method," Rayburn said.

Move to Dismiss Made In Gallagher Will Case

Chris J. Flanagan, counsel for Francis P. Gallagher, plaintiff, Thursday afternoon moved to dismiss the complaint in the action brought by Francis P. Gallagher against Dorothy McCann and another, an action to set aside deeds which had been executed by his mother conveying property to defendant. The motion by the complainant to dismiss the case on the merits came after there had been considerable testimony taken on behalf of the plaintiff.

Plaintiff sought to have deeds, executed by his mother, set aside on the grounds that she had been incompetent at the time they were drawn to make a conveyance. Medical testimony offered by the plaintiff however had been to the effect that while Mrs. Gallagher was ill of a heart ailment, she had not been incompetent in November 1946, when the deeds were drawn, to execute such instruments. Plaintiff claimed the unequal division of the real property between himself and his sister was due to the incompetency of Mrs. Mary E. Gallagher to execute the deeds.

The action to set aside the deeds had been partially tried before Justice Bookstein and a jury when at the afternoon session Mr. Flanagan moved to dismiss his own complaint on the merits on the theory that plaintiff had no case to be submitted to a jury.

Vincent G. Connelly with Louis G. Bruhns and told the court for the defendant, Dorothy McCann. Court recessed until 10 o'clock today.

Autoist Hits Tree, Says He Intends to Sue City

Patrolman Gerald Every reported to police headquarters Thursday morning that Clarence Freeman Lasher, Route 1-Saugerties, claimed he damaged his right rear fender while he was backing his 1946 Dodge into a parking space opposite 74 John street.

Lasher complained to Every that the tree which the car hit is a hindrance to cars being parked in the space and told the patrolman that he intended to file for damages with the city, according to Every's report.

Found Ill in Bed

Acting on a call which reached police headquarters Thursday morning, Patrolmen Juernsey Burger, Sr., and Elbert Soper were sent to 473 Washington avenue, where they found Henry Osterling ill in bed with no one to care for him. The policemen believed that the man should be hospitalized and notified the Ulster County Welfare Department. Through the efforts of that department, Osterling's family was contacted Thursday night, and the man was admitted to the Benedictine Hospital, with the consent of the family. His condition was reported as fairly good today.

Harry Hines West Hurley, an employee of the Vandervliet Battery Company in Kingston, reported to police that some one removed his left front bumper guard from his automobile while it was parked in front of Holy Cross Church Thursday evening, while he was attending a church supper. He said there was no indication that the bumper guard had been knocked off.

In his capacity as president of the New York State Elks Association, Mayor William F. Edelmuth visited Poughkeepsie Elks Thursday night. He was accompanied by Charles A. Ryan and Robert L. Rhinehart of Kingston. On Saturday, Mayor Edelmuth will visit the Haverstraw lodge.

Harder Is Re-elected

Frederick C. Harder, 34 Jarrold street, was re-elected president of the Poughkeepsie Elks Thursday night. He has held that position for about 15 years. Other officers elected included Henry Ulrich, Jr., foreman; Louis Bruno, first assistant foreman; Joseph Senor, second assistant foreman; Lee Gregory, secretary; and George Canfield, treasurer.

At Dicker Stage

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The stop-gap foreign aid program moved into the dickering stage today with a possibility the Senate might agree to some help for China if the House would agree to more for Europe. Congressional leaders were shooting for a compromise by Monday. Five members from each chamber were assigned to start work on one this morning.

Lively Topic in East

Jerusalem, Dec. 12 (AP)—Speculation as to the part the Aga Khan may play in the fight against Palestine partition was a lively topic among Arab leaders today. A Damascus newspaper said this week the wealthy leader of the Shi'a Moslems had offered $120,000,000 to "buy" Palestine for the Arabs if necessary, but his secretary dismissed this as "foolish."

Subway Is Opened

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—A seven-mile subway extension costing $12,000,000 was opened today in London's northeast suburbs. Five miles of the partly completed tube were used during the war as an underground factory for airplane and tank parts.

Ward's Sled Prices

Due to an error in Montgomery Ward's advertisement in Thursday's issue of The Freeman, the prices of sleds were incorrectly quoted. The 36-inch Shooting Star sled, sold for $3.29, while the 54-inch Trail Breaker sled retails for $6.65.

Pauley Says . . .

than $100,000,000 worse off than I had retained the grain.

"I have not had any connection or information relating to any army transactions in listed commodities. In fact, Mr. Revall in my presence issued specific instructions to my executive officer that in order to avoid possible embarrassment and complications that no matters which might come in the office relating to transactions in these items would come to my attention but would be referred to others in the department.

As a matter of fact, I have not determined what to buy, or when to buy, anything for the army during the time I have been with them and have not participated in any transaction relating to any purchases of anything with the same exception that in one instance I passed on a controversy between two bidders on a fish contract."

The former Democratic National Treasurer acknowledged his trading in advance of his appearance, but insisted the transactions have been "perfectly proper and ethical."

Hedge Against Inflation

The Californian, who took over the army post Sept. 3, described Pauley as being "a little bit of a hedge" against inflation. He added that more people ought to be buying commodities for the same reason.

Pauley told the committee he has discussed with Senator Taft (R-Ohio) the possibility that the Senate might confirm him for a permanent position in the department of the army.

He said Taft had promised to discuss it with his colleagues and let Pauley know.

Pauley's talk with Taft, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, came up when Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) wanted to know whether Pauley ever was promised a permanent appointment by Royal, who was sitting a few feet away.

"The only agreement was that it was to be temporary," Pauley replied. "I said I thought it was extremely inadvisable that it be made permanent. I had been up here before."

Pauley's nomination to be undersecretary of the navy nearly two years ago led to a row during Senate hearings. President Truman backed Pauley in his dispute with Ickes, and Ickes resigned as secretary of interior.

Pauley subsequently said Mr. Truman withdrew his name from consideration for the navy post.

Pauley said he went to Cincinnati to see Taft.

He said he consulted the Ohioan because he was being given more difficult and complex duties in the army department, and he thought the navy post would be a position should have a permanent appointment.

Taft promised to "think about it" and let him know, Pauley added.

Smoke From Heater Fills Store and Apartment

Smoke filled Reilly's Market and the apartment of Jerome Savage at 453 Abel street at 11:15 o'clock Thursday night, causing a telephone alarm to be sent to the fire department. Firemen found the smoke was from an oil burner out of adjustment. Deputy Chief Harold Sanford said in his report.

The building is a two-story frame building owned by Frank O'Neill and occupied by John D. Riker, Savage, and the Reilly Market, Sanford reported. The fire in the oil burner was extinguished with chemicals, and no damage was reported by the fire department.

Liberty Choice Over KHS Five

Despite a 17-game winning streak and their rating as favorites for the DUSO championship, the Kingston High School varsity basketball squad is a slight underdog in its DUSO opener against Liberty on the mountain town court tonight.

The Redskins are conceded a slight edge on the basis of the home court and superior playing condition. They have proved traditionally tough for the Maroon in the mountain town.

State Track Take Was $81,786,370

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 12 (AP)—A record 2,179,788 fans wagered an all-time high of $81,786,370 this year in harness racing's greatest season at New York state tracks.

The state's revenue from the lure of the pacers and trotters was $4,491,031, also a record, the tax department reported today.

In 1946, the attendance was 1,887,162. The betting handle $73,789,871 and the state's share $4,052,559, all record totals.

The harness horses raced 317 days this year at five tracks, compared to 313 days in 1946.

Even the value of uncashed winning pari-mutuel tickets soared this year to a new high of $54,237. This passed to the state.

The only significant drop was in the daily betting average per patron. It fell from $35.10 to $37.52.

Louis Plans June Exit

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Joe Louis, who has insisted he wanted to retire in 1948, was on record today as saying he plans to call it quits after his return match with Jersey Joe Walcott.

"Lose, win or draw, the fight with Walcott in June is my last," the heavyweight champion told a Bronx Home News reporter in an interview in his suite at an upper Manhattan hotel.

Louis expressed confidence, however, that he would knock out Walcott the next time.

"I'll be in better shape the next time," Louis declared, adding that he was "very, very" in the mood to fight a week ago when he won a disputed split decision.

Joe said he realized early in the fight that he was not in shape when he was unable to work up a sweat. He said he should have weighed 224 pounds instead of 211 and blamed his poor condition on the fact he "dried out" too strenuously the day before the fight.

Williams 2-1 Choice Over Tony Pellowe

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—Ike Williams, the Trenton, N. J., fighter, who holds the world light-weight championship, ruled a 1-2 favorite to whip Tony Pellowe, tough New York welterweight, in their ten-round non-title bout tonight at Madison Square Garden.

A crowd of 12,000 is expected to pay around $60,000 to witness the contest, marking the first New York appearance of Williams since he won the undisputed 135-pound crown by knocking out Bob Montgomery in Philadelphia last August.

Uncover New Gambling Plot In Pro Football

Honolulu, Dec. 12 (AP)—Reported gambling in the Pacific Coast Professional Football League was under investigation by league officials today.

Detective Capt. Eugene Kennedy said "several players" on the Hawaiian Warriors club admitted betting on themselves to win. Kennedy said charges would be filed under a territorial statute making it a misdemeanor to wager on an athletic contest. Kennedy said no bribery was involved.

The Warriors won the Pacific Coast League championship Sunday by defeating the Los Angeles Bulldogs 7 to 6. An exhibition game scheduled for next Sunday was called off when the Warriors' board of directors received reports that some squad members were gambling on games.

The team's general manager, Francis J. Brickner, said all of them denied placing bets on any opposing team. He emphasized that players of the Los Angeles Bulldogs were not involved in any way.

Larry Weishaupt smashed a brilliant 704 series to set a new individual record in the Major League last night firing games of 203, 232 and 269. It was the first 700 of the season in local bowling.

Weishaupt's pocket busting set the tempo for a high scoring session which produced a flock of big singles and triples.

Hotel Ulsters set a new team single record with a 1080 blast against Grunwalds.

Weishaupt started slowly with 203 but found the range on the famed 7 and 8 drives, pouring in an 8-timer in the third game.

City Baseball Dinner Scheduled on Monday

The City Baseball League dinner Monday night at The Barn will feature the presentation of championship awards to teams and individuals and a guest speaker prominent in the baseball world, Warren Smith, league president, said today.

Negotiations for a speaker have been under way for several days and definite word is expected to date from Jimmy Powers, sports editor of the Daily News, or the National League Service Bureau in New York.

Two teams will be honored—Jones Dairy which won the regular championship—and Morgan's Restaurant which defeated The Hotbrau in a thrilling Shaughnessy playoff.

All City League players are requested to contact their respective captains for tickets, if they haven't already done so. The program, although delayed because of various circumstances, is expected to furnish a fitting climax to the most successful season ever enjoyed by the twilight loop.

Wesley "Wes" Westrum, former Kingston Rec catcher, who made the grade with the New York Giants this season, will be one of the guests.

Liquor Dealers Of State Planning Kingston Meeting

R. E. Teetsel Is Re-elected
Ulster Proxy; Drive for Members Is Led by Broome

Kingston is in line for the next quarterly meeting of the New York State Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association, it was announced today following a recent meeting of the local branch of the organization.

The group would convene in both the Governor Clinton and Stuyvesant Hotels and would bring from 200 to 300 members to the city if the session is held here, the announcement said.

Robert E. Teetsel of Kingston, was re-elected president of the Ulster County Hotel and Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association. Other officers elected are: George Broome, Saugerties, first vice-president; Penney C. Griggs, Modona, 2nd vice-president; Sala Zoda, Port Ewen, 3rd vice-president; and Emilio Jordan, Kingston, fourth vice-president.

Michael Gorman of Rosendale was elected recording secretary; Louis Provencio, Kingston, financial secretary; Nicholas Nekos, Kingston, treasurer; Bert Treseder, Saugerties, sergeant-at-arms; and Albert Jones, West Hurley, assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Walter Williams of Rosendale was elected chairman of the board of directors and the other directors are: Thomas E. Euno, Saugerties; Fred Kistler, Kingston; R. J. Gross, Kingston; Raymond J. Schuler, Kingston; Jasper Martalito, Kingston; and Floyd Scott, Ellenville.

A membership drive will be conducted by the organization and George Broome of Saugerties was named chairman of the committee to arrange for the campaign.

A committee was also appointed to arrange for a permanent centralized meeting place for the organization.

Various proposed state legislation affecting the industry was discussed and the organization decided to back measures which would establish a minimum one-ounce glass for liquor to eliminate price cutting; the attempt to amend the 40-day credit law; a measure that would curtail the issuance of licenses; the bill which would allow women to work until closing time, instead of 12 midnight as now required; and legislation on the Moore plan which permits dry communities to share in the alcoholic beverage tax allocations.

CHILDREN? PARENTS?
Save On Income Tax
With Joint Returns

HOW IS A JOINT TAX RETURN SOMETIMES BETTER THAN AN INDIVIDUAL ONE?

The joint return can save you money when one spouse—or you or your mate—has deductions or losses higher than his gross income. On the joint return, that loss may be deducted from the income of both.

On an individual return, one spouse may not claim the other as an exemption if the other has EARNED ANY INCOME WHATSOEVER.

What a lot of people forget is that the wife is an exemption and may only be claimed as such. She is not a dependent.

In the joint return, both persons making it out may deduct $500 apiece as self-exemptions.

Uncle Sam does not want money to which he is not entitled. The best way for you to pay the least possible taxes is to make out your returns both ways—individually and jointly. Whichever way is cheapest is, of course, best.

For the complete tax picture; how to compute medical expenses, contributions, how to figure bad debts, inheritances, gambling losses, property damage, see our Reader Service tax guide, prepared by tax expert Henry M. Ryan, C. P. A. Shows what forms to use, when to file.

Reserves to Study New Army Ways At Local Meetings

Training for the immediate future will be along the lines of familiarization and orientation with current military science, it was announced at a recent session of the Ulster County Section of the 727th OR Composite Group in the New York State armory.

Lt. Col. James Byrne, C.I.C., of the Ulster County Section, led in the discussion on training plans Wednesday. Many suggestions and possibilities on the social phase of the organization were stressed. It was also announced that inactive reserve credit is gained by attendance at these meetings.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

Overlooked Trump Costs 2750 Points

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service

My title for today's hand is "The saddest story ever told in bridge," and as long as I am telling you the facts, I will admit it happened to me. My partner was Jack Denny of Toledo and Philadelphia, who sat West.

When he bid four clubs, I was not sure whether or not he was playing the Fishbein convention. Nevertheless, when North bid four spades, I took a desperate chance and bid five diamonds, which South loudly doubted.

Denny of course was justified in redoubling. Why the opponents did not take the redouble out, I do not know. But if they had, there would have been no story. They could have made six spades without much trouble—but I was playing the hand at five diamonds.

South opened the king of spades, which I trumped in dummy with the eight of diamonds, discarding a small club from my own hand. I led the queen of diamonds from dummy, and North played the six of hearts. Yes, a red card—and I never imagined that South would be mean enough to hold five diamonds against me. So, when South played a diamond, I assumed that everybody had followed, and that I had picked up all the trumps with three more leads. I next led a small heart and took the finesse. North won with the king and returned a spade, so I trumped with my last diamond, spread the hand and claimed the balance. I thought I had made the contract.

We were vulnerable, so we would have had a plus score of 1550 points. But the little girl sitting South insisted upon playing the hand out. I ran another heart, she trumped, and then she spread her hand, claiming the balance. Down I went, 4500 points, all because I thought that North's red card at trick two was a diamond. It was a difference of 2750 points.

Of course five diamonds could have been made by overtaking the first diamond lead when North showed out, and taking the heart finesse immediately. This would have left a diamond in dummy in case North returned a spade. If he returned a club or a heart, South could win only a trump trick.
